SEVEN MEN SELECTED

SEMI-FINALS FOR DEBATE

California Team to be Selected on January 15th

The second preliminary for the selection of a team for the Southern California debate took place on Thursday evening, January 6, in Jurisprudence Hall of the Law Building, and the following men were selected by the judges to participate in the third preliminary: Messrs. Berry, Blakesley, Bowen, Cohen, Hubbard, Schreiber, and Taylor. Professors Thurston, Mumma and Croissant were the judges.

The third preliminary will take place in Jurisprudence Hall on Saturday, January 15, at 8 o'clock p.m. The judges will be Deans Vance, Wilbur and McBain, and they will devolve the final selection. Each speaker will be allowed ten minutes, and in this trial may choose either side of the subject.

As announced before in The Hatchet, this debate with Southern California will take place during the Easter Holidays at Los Angeles, and the expenses of the George Washington team to Los Angeles and return will be borne by the University of Southern California.

NEEDHAM SOCIETY DEBATES

National Law School the Opponent—January 15th the Date

On Saturday, January 15, in University Hall, the Needham Debating Society will give a return debate to the National Law School. The subject will be, "Resolved, That the establishment of a central bank of issue under government control would promote the economic interests of the country." The Needham Society will be represented by Messrs. Millott, Kause, and Thompson. Messrs. Millott and Thompson have both been members of inter-society teams, and while this will be Mr. Kause's first appearance, we are assured that the interests of the Needham Society, and of George Washington, will be fully guarded, and that no fault will rest with the team if this university is not victorious. Professor Willis of the Department of Finance of this University has been giving the Needham special instruction, and Mr. J. T. Kennedy has been coaching the team in the art of debate. Under the training of these two experienced men, the Needham team should go on the platform well primed for the warfare of words. Last year the Needham team defeated the National team, and we hope for a second victory.

We understand that the National Law School team is being coached by a member of the faculty of that school, and that George Washington men will be confronted by most worthy antagonists.

The public, and especially the student body, is cordially invited to attend this debate, and support the George Washington team. Mr. Pillow, the chairman of the committee in charge, has promised that the audience will be delightfully entertained by a good musical program in addition to the debate.

RIFLE CLUB MEETING

The annual meeting of the Rifle Club will be held in West Hall Tuesday, January 18, at 6.30 p.m. The following officers will be elected for the year: Captain, President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer. All members of the club are urged to attend.

RIFLE LEAGUE FORMED

G. W. U. VS. IOWA JAN. 13

The Schedule of Matches—Many Men Competing

An Intercollegiate Indoor Rifle League has been organized embracing teams from the following ten institutions: Universities of Cornell, Iowa, Nevada, Columbia, George Washington, Louisiana State, Idaho, Washington State College, Delaware College, and U. S. College of Veterinary Surgeons.

G.W.U. Schedule

January 13—Iowa.

January 20—Delaware College.

January 27—Cornell.

February 3—Louisiana State.

February 10—Columbia.

February 17—Idaho.

February 24—Nevada.

March 3—U. S. College Veterinary Surgeons.

Conditions

Team—Ten (10) men.

Number of shots—Twenty shots for record, ten standing and ten prone, five shots on a target.

Eligibility—Competitor to be in good standing in the undergraduate year of the institution represented, and who is maintaining the necessary hours of work and standard of scholarship required by the institution. He must not have received a degree from any other college or university.

Matches—A judge is appointed who will see that all conditions are lived up to, certify to the scores, and take charge of the targets. All scores are telegraphed to the National Rifle Association at Washington so that they will be received not later than Saturday morning; they are then tabulated and given to the press for Sunday's papers.

Prize—To the team winning the highest percentage of the matches, trophy and medals to members of team; second highest team, medals. "Arms and The Men" will present a year's subscription to the high man of each team.

The George Washington Rifle Team will inaugurate the most active indoor season in its history. It is now rounding into shape for the match with the University of Iowa team January 13. The George Washington University team is always good, but hopes

BOUTELL ACT ATTACKED

FEEBLE OBJECTIONS MADE

No Evident Cause Assigned—Memorandum Circulated

The introduction in Congress of the Gallinger-Boutell Amendment to the Morrill Act giving to George Washington University, through the District of Columbia, equal benefits in the federal appropriation for Agriculture and Mechanic Arts education, with state and territorial institutions, has brought a shower of opposition from the representatives of certain state institutions. Among these, President James of the University of Illinois, seems to be the chief objector. With little knowledge of the subject and less regard for the facts, a "Memorandum" has recently been issued from his office accusing the advocates of the present bill with the intention of establishing a precedent to give federal aid and support to "private institutions under cover of the provisions of the Morrill Act."

In its prospective application to the George Washington University this accusation is unfounded for the very reason that this University is not a "private institution" in the meaning of the Morrill Act, and that the support proffered by that act is intended for any non-sectarian college which will carry on the work in Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, so long as there is no State institution in the same jurisdiction. The precedent of giving the benefits of this act to other than purely State institutions has long since been set in allowing such universities as Yale, Brown, Cornell and Dartmouth to become beneficiaries of the act.

The further accusation is made that Congress by passing the Boutell Amendment will give direct aid to a sectarian institution. This is indeed a strange statement to have made of George Washington University, which since 1904 has been entirely non-sectarian and has on its board of twenty-one trustees not more than six members belonging to any one religious denomination. The bill in question also provides that the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of the Interior, and the Secretary of Commerce and Labor and the Commissioner of Education shall be ex-officio members of the Board.

It is difficult to find a motive for the opposition which has made it self evident in the lobbies of the Capitol unless it can be attributed to the general objection which has always been made by certain institutions to the establishment of a University in the District of Columbia with Federal support. The real controversy is between those outside the District, who are endeavoring to have Congress establish a post-graduate, non-degree conferring institution, and those within the District who desire to have for their sons and daughters a true university doing work of college grade in all the lines of undergraduate work. President James was the author of a bill introduced in the last Congress to create a National University doing only graduate work, expressly limiting the student body to those who have acquired a master's degree, and providing that no degree shall be given for the work done in the so-called University of the United States.

The legislature of each state is empowered to designate the institution which administers the fund provided by Congress. Should Congress establish a Federal University this fund would of course be transferred to its benefit, but until then it is within the spirit and letter of the Morrill Act that Congress should designate any existing institution which comes within the limitation of the Act for that purpose. And as has often been shown in this discussion, the George Washington University is the only institution in the District eligible under this Act. And if the District of Columbia is entitled to its share of this appropriation made under this Act it is not the function or the privilege of outsiders to suggest or dictate by whom the fund is to be administered. The legislature of New York would in no wise relish a suggestion proffered by President James of the University of Illinois that the State appropriation be given to the Syracuse University rather than to Cornell or some other institution selected by it. And why is it in any degree more appropriate that the legislature of the District of Columbia should follow the dictates of an outsider in matters peculiarly concerning its internal affairs?

President Needham has prepared for general distribution a strong and conclusive reply to the "Memorandum" of President James which should answer the objections to the Boutell Amendment satisfactorily to every fair-minded person.

Other objections of no greater weight have been raised against this bill, but as far as can be learned their effect upon congressmen has been negligible and the general sentiment seems to be in favor of the bill. A report of the Committee on Agriculture to the House is expected soon, and the Senate Committee will have a hearing in the near future.

Saw the Earth Move

During the Christmas holidays an apparatus was erected in the University to show the rotation of the earth. The experiment was performed in University Hall by T. R. Manning, R. M. Holmes and O. W. Hansen by special permission from Dean Hodgkins. The apparatus is known as Foucault's pendulum experiment. It is an iron ball, weighing about twenty pounds, swinging on a 30-foot wire, suspended from the ceiling of the hall. The pendulum when set vibrating, swings in one plane and does not turn with the earth, so that when the earth turns towards the east the pendulum appears to swing toward the west. Observations were made and timed, the pendulum appearing to shift 5 degrees in 31 minutes 50 seconds, whereas as a matter of fact the floor of the hall was seen turning at that rate.

The truth of the experiment has been known over half a century, but it is not often demonstrated, owing to the fact that conditions are generally not favorable. The entire week was spent in rigging up the apparatus and preparing for the experiment. As vibrations of the floor and air current affect the experiment materially, all doors were closed and no one was allowed in the room except those performing the test. The main difficulty experienced, after the apparatus was arranged, was the air resistance on the pendulum bob. The longest time it would swing without a new impetus was three hours; but during that time enough observations were taken to give very good results.

THIS IS IMPORTANT

The basketball team has begun its practice with large turnout of men, many of them veteran players, and with the best spirit, but without money. Permission to play has finally come from the Athletic Council, and it rests with the students of the University to contribute enough money for the men to carry on the work. The Central Y.M.C.A. is giving the team the use of the Boys' Gymnasium, and is it not our share to each contribute a small amount to extend the fame of the school? The small sum of 50 cents contributed by each student would give enough money to pay the expenses of running the team. A campaign is being started to raise this fund. The Law School has already given $12. Messrs. Chubb, Lucas, and Prince are collecting this money in the College Department, and students in other departments will be named in the coming week to help.

About twelve men are reporting for practice, which is held Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, at 6.30, in the Boys' gymnasium, Y. M. C. A. Oscar Horn has been elected manager and arrangements are being made for games. It is planned to take both a northern and southern trip. The captain has not yet been elected. Mr. Fowler is giving his services as coach.

Each student must do his share in contributing for the support of the team if we are to have basketball. It's up to you.

Y.M.C.A.

All members of the Y.M.C.A. are urged to be present, and outsiders, are cordially invited to the meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday, January 19. The Y.M.C.A. of this University has had a delegate, Mr. Hansen, at the Student Volunteer Convention in Rochester in the last week in December, and he will tell about it in the meeting on the said date. It is hoped that this movement will find support in the George Washington University, and that the precedent of having a delegate there may be followed in succeeding years. Don't forget the date—January 19, at noon, in the West Hall.

NOTICE

Special Lectures on "How to Find the Law."

Mr. Roger W. Cooley of St. Paul, Minn., will deliver four lectures on "How to Find the Law" on the afternoons of Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, January 10, 11, 12 and 13, at 5.40 p.m., in the Law Library.

These lectures are of great practical value. Regular lectures in the Third and Fourth Year classes will be suspended during the second periods on the days mentioned in order that members of those classes may attend Mr. Cooley's lectures.

Lectures by Dr. Colenbrander

The lectures by Dr. Colenbrander on the history of Dutch colonization proved both entertaining and instructive. On Thursday, Dutch colonization in the 17th century was discussed, and on Friday the modern Dutch colonization movement. Dr. Colenbrander's lectures displayed a wide knowledge of his subject and a concise manner of presentation.

The Students' Ball for the benefit of the George Washington Hospital will take place February 4, at the New Willard.

This enterprise, which has for its object a most deserving cause, has become one of the institutions of college life, and each year has taken a stronger hold on the student body. As a social event, it ranks supreme in University affairs, and brings with it one of the most enjoyable occasions of the college year. In addition, the indisputable worthiness of the purpose for which it is instituted commands the support of every student who may find it possible to attend.

The social character of the ball demands that it be given at the best available location in Washington, and necessarily, that entails an expenditure which exceeds the usual run of student activities. It is this one objection which in previous years has prevented the attendance of many who were interested in the Hospital and who were anxious to be among those present. The Board of Lady Managers of the Hospital who have the affair under their control have realized the conditions and have endeavored, as far as lay within their power, to temper matters more to the tune of the average student's purse. One of the suggestions which developed in the meeting of the Class Presidents last week, and which merits the attention of the student body is a plan which has been in vogue at Princeton University for the last three years and which has proved a decided success. There the students each year sign an agreement not to send flowers to members of the fair sex whom they bring. The custom of sending flowers, while a most delicate attention, and consequently a popular one, in many cases has proved the last straw; and so, to relieve the rather heavy expense attached, it has been suggested that the plan be followed at this University for the Students' Ball.

Necessarily, visitors from the city at large cannot be reached in such a campaign; its effectiveness will be felt, therefore, only among the students who desire to attend. However, if all, or a large majority of such, would agree to suggestion, by signing their names or by oral consent, it is exceedingly probable that a number of students who otherwise would find it impossible to be on hand could avail themselves of this opportunity, not only of aiding the University Hospital, but, mainly, of spending a most enjoyable evening.

Individual preferences, of course, will lend great weight to the success or failure of the idea; but if those who feel it incumbent upon themselves to show this particular attention will pause to realize that by refraining in this instance, they will enable a large number of their co-students to enjoy this delightful affair where otherwise it would be impossible, we are confident that they will join both in the spirit and practice of the suggestion.

We shall be glad to receive communications in regard to the plan; and, in addition, will maintain a list for those who wish to express their approval by signing the agreement.

We take pleasure in announcing the appointment of Mr. A. H. Redfield of College as an editor for The Hatchet.

HOLDS LIVELY SESSION

CLASS PRESIDENTS MEET

Foot Ball Banquet and Students' Ball Considered—Given Reception

Those of the Class Presidents who were not present at the last meeting of the Association were absent at a very important and at the same time very delightful session.

The first matter discussed was the football banquet. The chairman of the committee in charge of that entertainment was not present, it was reported that a deficit of $50 would have to be met. Two plans were proposed. The first was moved to, the effect that the money be raised from the treasury of the Association of Class Presidents. In other words, that the Class Presidents each be assessed an amount sufficient to cover the sum required. This, of course, met with the approval of all present until Mr. Seiler proposed another remedy, namely, that the money be taken from the class treasuries. This is probably the more equitable solution, in that the classes were responsible for the deficit by not supporting the banquet. It is to be regretted that so little spirit was manifested by the students in this regard. It was a banquet given to the men who upheld the dignity of the University in athletics and should have met with the support of every loyal student. The only drawback to the excellent scheme of Mr. Seiler is the fact that perhaps there is no class in the University with a surplus in the treasury. If it is decided on a report of Mr. Haller, the chairman of the committee now considering the matter, that the class treasuries will be called upon, there will have to be a special assessment levied in some of the classes.

The committee at work to secure the passage of the Morrill Bill has reported progress. Nothing definite has been done in the matter, but those who have it in charge are devoting their best efforts toward the desired end.

President Needham for the University then made a few remarks with his usual degree of wit and entertainment. After this the meeting adjourned to the Women's building.

Yes, to the Women's building! There they were received by the Columbian women, not all, but some of the Columbian women, who explained the purpose and arrangements of the Students' ball to be held in the New Willard Hotel on the night of February 4 and the morning of the 5th. The tickets will cost $3 each and will be obtained by those students who desire them from the Class Presidents.

The Association was then left alone to discuss the matter presented to them by the Columbian women. Many very interesting and amusing speeches were made by members of the Association, and jokes quite equal to, if not above the standard of those heard at the Law School smokers, were enjoyed by all.

After electing Mr. Keats editor for The Hatchet and "Cherry Tree," the meeting of the Association adjourned. Its next regular session will be held the first Thursday in February, when it is expected that the attendance will be much better. These are not to be all dry business meetings. They are intended to be social gatherings as well. Those who fail to be present are neglecting a duty depriving themselves of a good time. Students who have any matters to be brought up before the Association will hand them in writing to their Class Presidents.

The Students' Ball.

The Students' Ball will be given at the New Willard February 4. Tickets will cost $3 each, and can be secured from the Presidents of classes. The ball is one of the recognized events of student life, and in the past has been liberally supported by the students. Every endeavor will be made to surpass the successes of previous years, both in numbers and pleasure. A more detailed account of the affair will appear in the next issue of The Hatchet.

The December Bulletin.

The "December Bulletin," published by the University, has made its appearance, and can be secured at the office of the Secretary. The committee in charge, of which Dean Hodgkins is chairman, have presented an extremely interesting number, containing among other things the address of Mr. E. C. Brandenburg, ex-Presi-

Needham Debating Society

On Friday evening, January 7, the debate was on the question, "Resolved, That the initiative and referendum are desirable adjuncts to state legislative machinery." A curious incident was that all who were to take part in the debate came prepared to speak on the affirmative side of the question. To obviate this difficulty, Mr.

Bradley consented to change over, and three persons were assigned to each side—Messrs. Curl, Oren and Pollock taking the affirmative, and Messrs. Altizer, Bradley and Blakesley the negative. Messrs. Altizer and Blakesley volunteering. The judges, Messrs. Willard, Bergman and Rush, awarded the laurels to the negative, and decided that Messrs. Blakesley and Bradley were entitled to first and second honors, respectively.

Mr. Kennedy, in his criticism, gave the debaters some good advice as to delivery, posture, mannerisms, and last, but not least, complimented the speakers on being better prepared than those assigned to any other debate which has taken place in the society this year.

In the absence of President Thompson, Mr. Millott, the Vice-President, presided.

Enosinian Society

At their regular fortnightly debate the Enosinians selected for their subject the reverse of the question to be debated with the University of California: "Resolved, That state, county, and city officers should be nominated by the direct primary system, rather than through the convention system."

Messrs. Jeffrey and Bowen advocated the "direct" system, while Messrs. Schreiber and Hodgkins set forth the merits of the convention system, and, as several of the speakers were compelled to speak extemporaneously, a most interesting and instructive evening was spent. The judges, after prolonged discussion, gave as the majority opinion the following: The debate won by the negative; first honors to Mr. Schreiber; second honors to Mr. Bowen. The next meeting of the society will be held on January 14, 1910.

COLLEGE NOTES

The Freshmen elect a new president in the near future, Mr. Frazier having left college.

An important meeting of the Seniors will take place Thursday night, at which plans for the class graduation affairs will be discussed and the various class officers for the occasion elected.

A large number of graduates and former students made their appearance in the college halls during the holidays, among them were J. Sterrett, Ralph Howell and Mr. Henderson.

The editor of the "Cherry Tree" of the Sophomore Class is having difficulty in persuading his classmates to have their pictures taken. Such bashfulness is decidedly unique in college annals.

With the holidays in the rear and exams looming up in the future, the only bright lights during the next few weeks will be the prospects of the Students' Ball and the track meet.

LAW

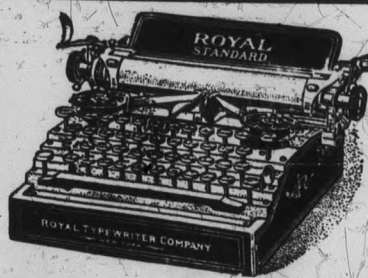

The Freshman Day Class will probably give their smoker during the month of February.

It is felt among the students that the lectures of Mr. Cooley on how to find the law would be of much value to the First and Second Year men as to the Seniors. In fact, such a course throughout the whole period of study would be of the greatest practical benefit.

The law societies of the University were somewhat overshadowed by the success of the Enosinian college society in the number of its members successful in the California trials. It is probable that a debate between the Enosinian and one of the law societies will take place this year.

CLASSY CLOTHES CUTTER TO MEN AND WOMEN

in making this request stated that the attendance of the students at the medical society would be of advantage in that it would enable them to become familiar with the usages of medical societies and with the way in which the medical men present and discuss subjects of interest, and at the same time they would receive a great deal of information from hearing the papers and discussions. He also stated that in so much that the Senior students would soon be graduates of the University he believed that their relation to the University and Medical College would be greatly improved through their association with the medical alumni at the meetings of the Medical Society. This action of the Medical Society is greatly appreciated by the Senior students in so much that it will be of great value to them.

Students' Veterinary Medical Association

The Students' Veterinary Medical Association of the Veterinary College held its regular January meeting Saturday night, January 8. Papers were given by Messrs. Divine, Dillard, Marsh, and Lochboehler, followed by a very interesting paper by Dr. Eichhorn of the Bureau of Animal Industry on "Tetanus and Tetanus Antitoxin." Discussion followed each paper, and the meeting was very profitable to the "vets."

PHARMACY DEPARTMENT

Ten solemn Seniors
Went out to dine,
Wilson got a headache,
And there were nine.
Nine blissful Seniors
Trying to be late,
Kenner went to the Gayety
And there were eight.
Eight handsome Seniors
Started home at eleven,
Hanbach met a former friend
And there were seven.

Seven shining Seniors

In an awful fix,
Hogan stopped to buy a smoke
And there were six.
Six future pharmacists,
Very much alive,
Judd tried to catch a car,
And there were five.
Five joyful Seniors,
With always room for more,
Tewksbury got married
And there were four.
Four contented Seniors,
As happy as could be,
Jones raised the ante
And there were three.
Three distinguished Seniors,
What a happy crew?
Tschiffley tackled bookkeeping,
And there were two.
Two beloved Seniors,
As bright as the sun,
Both took the finals
And there was one.
One lonely Senior,
Beating it alone,
Salb went to Alexandria
And there were none.
